Droppix Recorder Description: The software also enables you to create and backup your favorite music collections. It makes it much easier to backup a large number of music files for offline listening. It doesn't matter if you want to use songs from CD rips, online MP3 archives or other types of music, such as MP2, AIFF or FLAC files, as Droppix Recorder will allow you to enjoy them with the best sound quality. Moreover, when you want to create audio CDs, you can create them in various resolutions and bit rates, so you can extract the best quality audio without sacrificing the space you have left on your disc. You can use the advanced user interface of the application to customize the appearance of the menus and options, or to provide additional information about the disc using graphics and pictures. Also, you can manually enter information about the files, like the length, name and location. With Droppix Recorder, you can rip songs from online streaming and download services, add video clips, and burn discs or save your music in the online cloud using the integration options. The software also enables you to analyze and manage the folders and files that are on your optical discs, such as whether they are duplicates, or simply empty directories. In the "Backup" tab, you can browse for files and folders and copy them to any folder or location on your hard drive. Moreover, you can create your favorite disc backup by selecting the files and folders you want to be copied. You can also complete the backup process in a variety of ways. For example, you can choose to create a portable media file (MPC) or a file archive (ZIP, RAR, or 7z) so that you can easily extract the files on a disc or a drive that lacks sufficient space. You can also choose to encrypt your media files using a password or use the encryption keys stored on your computer. And when the backup is done, the software will display information about the disc, its size, and when it was created. 2.
