Field of the Invention This invention relates to an aperture ratio-fixed bright-field optical image pickup device and, more particularly, to an aperture ratio-fixed bright-field optical image pickup device for making it possible to image a two-dimensional image of a specimen and its peripheral area on a single plane. 2. Description of the Related Art FIG. 1 is a schematic diagram of an optical image-pickup device using a conventional Fourier transform lens of a Cassegrain type. This example is disclosed in the U.S. Pat. No. 3,768,929 issued on Oct. 30, 1973. This means that an aperture of the objective 1 is set to be smaller than an aperture (exposure aperture) of the Fourier transform lens 2a. Since
