Re: program to generate unique random number Nate, Your answer is definitely correct. However, you should notice that the statement "The code could be written as" implies that you should write the code so that the output can be. The statement "The code could be written as" means that the code has already been written. Re: program to generate unique random number I would be surprised if you could actually get "unique random number". A random number generator is a series of numbers that are all alike. The numbers generated by a random number generator are pseudo-random, not random. In the present study, the results of the sonographic examination and the intraoperative findings suggested that the disappearance of the abnormal vessels was induced by primary surgical management of the ulcer. However, a follow-up CT scan taken 2 months after the operation showed that the abnormal vessel was still present in the lower rectum (Fig. 1) (Fig. 1) (ref-type="fig"). This phenomenon could be explained by the fact that the blood supply to the rectal ulcer was maintained for a long time by the persistent abnormal vessels. Conclusions (Sec4) ===== In conclusion, we reported a rare case of an intussusception occurring in the rectal ulcer of a patient with Crohn's disease. We consider this case to be worthy of note because the intussusception was associated with active inflammation of the colon and rectum as shown on CT and pathological findings. Proliferation of microglia and reactive astrocytes in hippocampal dentate gyrus after electrical stimulation in the rat. Electrical stimulation of the perforant pathway was performed in freely moving rats to investigate whether such stimulation could affect both glial cells (microglia and astrocytes) in the dentate gyrus. The number of cells immunoreactive for the specific antibodies OX-42, OX-6, and S100 was examined with a Coulter Counter (Zeiss) on the entire dentate gyrus at 8, 24, 48, 72, and 96 h poststimulation. The total number of OX-42 and OX-6 immunoreactive cells increased dramatically by factor 4 and 3.2, respectively, at 96 h, while S100 immunoreactive cells increased by a factor 3.6. These data suggest that stimulation affects the glial cells as well as the neuronal cells in the dentate gyrus. These two cell types might, therefore, influence each other. The possible role of this
