Performance improvement in nontypeable Haemophilus influenzae isolates from otitis media. Four hundred fourteen nontypeable Haemophilus influenzae (NTHi) isolates from otitis media over a 2-year period were tested for sensitivity to cefuroxime and moxalactam and for comparative minimum inhibitory concentrations (MICs) of cefuroxime and moxalactam and azithromycin. Fewer isolates were resistant to cefuroxime (17%) than to moxalactam (34%). Changes in minimum inhibitory concentrations of cefuroxime and moxalactam for NTHi were observed from 2000 to 2001. Compared with the first study, susceptibility rates for cefuroxime and moxalactam increased from 64% to 80% and from 67% to 83%, respectively. Cefuroxime was more effective than azithromycin against NTHi. Compared with the first study, resistance to azithromycin increased from 0% to 6%.A searchable database of all plants grown at Bromsgrove's LSM. Most of my beds are in the shade of trees, but in the late spring and summer there is always a gap in the foliage. My current favourite is the path that runs next to the living wall, where I've planted a mixture of plants that include potager herbs, pink dracena (Brasenia schreberi), hosta, hostas, vinca and poison ivy to attract butterflies. In the summer I want a big salad bowl full of leafy greens. It's just me and the ducks, so they get as much as they want, as do the hens and my son. It should be
