Note For beginners, Photoshop is a great program because it allows you to use the power of a professional in a simple, easy-to-use package. However, professionals use Photoshop for special effects, sophisticated software, and more complex tasks. As you work in Photoshop, you become more skilled at using it. ## the importance of loading images Photoshop is a bit like cooking—you need to add the ingredients, and the program does the actual mixing. Images are like the ingredients in Photoshop—you need to "load" them before you can use them. The way you load an image is with the Load Photo command in the Layers panel (on the left side of the screen), as shown in Figure 5-12. FIGURE 5-12: The Layers panel enables you to see and work with all the layers of the image. The Load Photo button is helpful in two ways. First, it tells you that an image is waiting to be used. (For this example, you see a picture of the oceans in a rolling wave.) Second, it automatically places all the visible layers in front of the active one, which is helpful when you're working with complex images, because you can layer edits across the whole image. To load images from the computer, right-click or press Ctrl+L. You see a panel called Library, as shown in Figure 5-13. The Library is the place for any images stored on your hard drive. You can quickly load an image or create a new one by following these steps: 1. Locate an image on your computer. 2. Hold down the Ctrl key (if using Windows), or hold down the Shift key (if using a Mac). 3. Click the image and drag it into the Photoshop window.

The views and opinions expressed here are solely those of the author and do not necessarily reflect the views of Cointelegraph. Every investment and trading move involves risk, you should conduct your own research when making a decision. Market data is provided by the HitBTC exchange. The traditional investing landscape is changing rapidly. As blockchain technology matures, the concept of tokens and cryptocurrencies is being understood at a deeper level. A large number of crypto-related companies are raising funds. This list of startups that are seeking funding could be the new future. Among them, CareBit.io with a focus on the benefits of blockchain technology to care. Carebit is a caregiving platform. It is a place where patients can access community care providers 24/7 through a 'one-stop-shop' feature. Carebit's token (CGB) will be used to pay for services on the platform. The Bit-Wise BLOCK (BWB) token will be used as a gift in the platform. The token generation event (TGE) aims to raise $14 million to develop the platform, and to acquire a total of 50 million BWB tokens in the process. All tokens will be distributed to the holders of the CareBit token. Carebit will pay 60 percent of its total funds raised from the TGE to the CareBit token holders. Blockchain is designed to act as a shared and secure ledger of transactions. This enables the user's identity to be verified directly. Carebit requires no credential like a government ID to operate, making it ideal for people such as veterans to trust the platform. Carebit is a great project, but there is a lot of work to do before this project can go to a sustainable success. The project has the luxury of raising funds at a high interest rate, but it needs to execute smartly. The team needs to develop use cases for the platform, and that's not likely to happen overnight. However, we believe that Carebit has the advantage of a huge demographic and the forward-thinking customer base of the military. At the end of the day, the military is a customer-friendly force. The CareBit team is aggressive in trying to raise funds. They have already launched a sale and in the next few weeks, the team will launch a private sale. The tokens will be issued on the CareBit platform and the sales will be
