This podcast is all about the old and new ways you can use your iPhone in the bedroom. So grab your towel, some razors and your iPhone and spend the next 5 minutes doing something naked. Or alternatively, we have a lot of stuff to get through in a short amount of time so here we go... 1. Leo Houlding has recently uncovered an incredible iOS 6 vulnerability in iOS devices that will allow users to control other devices such as laptops remotely. The exploit is proof of concept but it will work for a limited number of applications for a limited number of devices. 2. Using a previously patched exploit, Leo has been able to craft a non-destructive firmware extraction tool. Simply put, you install and run the tool and the firmware is extracted from the device allowing full access to the phone. 3. Keen eye reader, XcodeGhost, has uncovered a new set of in-house iOS applications that have been using custom coding for the Photos app which includes options to upload photos directly to iCloud. 4. James Martin aka DLX has found a workaround for the exposed IMEI. Watch, learn and find out how to decode your own phone number or any international number you wish. 5. Aditya Mishra has uncovered new ways to make use of the screen lock in iOS devices. Now you can take photos and listen to music while the device is locked. Click the video above to find out how. 6. A new iOS 6 exploit
