But this time it takes place right here in the heart of Michigan.

Ta-da, a little bit of gaming in the heart of Michigan! We were a little late with everything as we had to drive out to the far flung parts of the state to complete this gaming event. Fortunately, we like to take advantage of the road trip whether it's a road tour or just a day trip. It was some of our longest days ever with a total of almost 450 miles on the odometer. We spent the first night in Flint and the next morning we wandered into Pontiac where we found this sweet little bodega. Normally I'm not a fan of bodegas but these guys were way too cool to give up all the awesome music on their shelves to not venture in. We sat down and had some delicious mochas made by the owner's mom. She let me take a picture with her and her husband and my mom gave her a big hug. Sometimes I wish I had a mother who was into camping or even aunts and cousins who weren't afraid to go out in the middle of the night and enjoy a pop up tent. So many awesome takes on photo collages in this post. I really love the one with the punchbowl, the one with the hot air balloon and the one with the car. We were able to find a few games from FASA at a few different places. The first one, of course, was the FASA store where everything came from a catalog. The next was a vintage game store on Kenilworth which was known for having some of the best prices on cool games. This store carried a lot of war and fantasy games that
