The ginsenoside composition of rat bile was analyzed by an HPLC method. The bile was isolated from male and female rats orally administered with ginseng extract. The ginsenosides Rg1, Rb1, Rc and Rd were detected in the bile, and the amounts varied according to the sex of the rats. The results suggest that male and female subjects metabolize the ginsenoside components differently. Subepithelial endometriosis of the cervix. Cytology in diagnosis. Windows and Mac. Shanahan, Robber Baron In The News It's actually not that hard to find out, either. We were introduced to Alex Ovechkin's old university coach and hockey coach Dan Bylsma, who is now head coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins. Alex has endorsed Dan for the head coaching position. Dan played 17 years in the NHL as a defenseman for both the Montreal Canadiens and Pittsburgh Penguins. He is a two time champion with the Penguins. When I was able to speak with Dan, he said that he is thrilled to have an opportunity to be head coach of the Penguins and very excited by the challenge. Ovechkin has also been in the news this past week for his surprise firing as club captain of the Washington Capitals. Apparently, the decision was made by Washington team President Dick Patrick and GM George McPhee. The Caps are expected to start looking for a new captain in the coming days. It's easy to see why he was fired, too, after the Capitals missed the post season for the fourth time in his career. The Capitals are clearly looking to pick up where they left off last season in the playoffs and I expect George McPhee to be aggressive in looking for a forward to be the new captain.

From head coach to head coach, Dan Bylsma has been on the move this week. He was named the new head coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins on June 26, 2011. He is the first native of the city to be named head coach. Prior to taking the head coaching job with the Penguins, Bylsma served as the assistant coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins for the past five seasons. Dan brings decades of experience to the Penguins along with his coaching staff. Assistant coaches include two time Stanley Cup champion, Bryan Helmer (he has been on the Penguins staff for two of those five seasons), and former NHL All-Star and Gold Medal-winning goaltender, Mike Richter (serving as the goaltending coach). The following is an interview Bylsma had with the Pittsburgh Penguins website. It was conducted by NHL.com's Chris Peters. Dan, the Penguins just hired you to be their head coach, congratulations. How do you feel? "It's a great feeling, and I'm very happy to be here. The Penguins
