Jigsaw Adventure begins with you gliding slowly down an enclosed tube connecting two buildings. As you drift along you are told that you have been placed there as a test subject for some experiment. While you are drifting you suddenly hear voices talking in the shadows around you. Determined to find the answers to who and what you are, you start to hear more conversation. As you drift closer you find two figures and an idyllic setting on the banks of a deep lake. All is a dream. Then suddenly things begin to go wrong. The darkness starts to close in on you and all you can see is the black, looming figure of what you know to be a large, ancient Egyptian mausoleum looming ahead. Chilled by the icy mist and having a feeling of being watched, you find yourself trapped in an ant sized space with only a few flickering candles lighting the way. You slowly drift through the flickering darkness. You hear more voices. Realizing that there is no possible escape, you face the inevitability of your fate. What will happen next? Is there an end to this nightmare? You have a choice, You can... wake up... Notes: OST files are provided "as-is" without any kind of warranty. I Make Saints (Steam Edition)

-- 1.0.3.3

What's new:

More than a decade after cancelled plans to commence operations, seven 4BIG electric multiple unit trains entered service on the Trenitalia Thello service on 22nd September 2014. Since then, the 4BIG have been slowly introduced into the busy Venice-Pula service, operating on the Emperor Joseph II service between Palmanova, Venice and Gorizia, or Venice and Pola/Pustertal. Since the initial introduction, this train has shown obvious improvements due to its planned upgrade - the notable improvements include a more easily accessible crew-compartment for the drivers; the introduction of fully automated driver/brake control; and an extension of the train's length. In total, there are 7 4BIGs in Venice's fleet and an additional 3 in its sister service Pustertal. I recently received a copy of add-on model 72350, 'BR Class 422 '4BIG' EMU, which I have installed on a fully self-fabricated 150 cm-long baseplate. I will therefore be taking a look at this bogie-adapted locomotive, and its history. The model is intended to be run on a 0.06:1 Train Simulator locomotive, but given a wider gauge of 4 mm, the seating areas are slightly larger than the standard 2.60 m-long layout. The narrower spaces are accommodated between the seats and the centre table, which some folks may like better. When you look the model from above, the amount of detail isn't seen to be extravagant - the paint scheme is in a believable mid-1970s livery, with a more marshall (diesel styled) bodyside. Given the nature of the model, I'm a little out of my element. I started building the model due to the error in my model of the Class 66 I posted prior to Christmas. This model was a more simple effort to get the details right. While there have been many fine modellers active on the SteamBits forum in the last few years, my actual experience in that area is admittedly patchy. I've already ordered some more copy of '4BIG'; suffice to say, there aren't too many variations amongst them. From what I've read, one was present at the 'Grand Prix of Locos' exhibition at the Repsol
