This is my html code: DOWN UP This is my css code: body { margin: 0; padding: 0; background-color: red; } #arrow-down-button { cursor: pointer; } #arrow-up-button { cursor: pointer; } .arrow-down-button:hover { background-color: blue; } .arrow-up-button:hover { background-color: green; } The final result is: You can see that the 'a' tag is blue while the text is still red. What I want to achieve is that I want the a tag to be red while the background of the div is green. I guess it has something to do with the pointer events. I can't seem to figure out what I'm doing wrong. I have read many articles about it, but none of them seemed to work. A: What you can do is add pointer-events:none to.arrow-down-button and.arrow-up-button so that the hover-effects work on them but for all other elements on the page, these events apply. This is because all events are usually propagated to their child elements, but with

Related readings Data is available at every moment but how do you distinguish the data that actually matters? Big data is the promise of a more efficient law firm (or firm with data) but legal services has yet to fully embrace the benefits of using it effectively. In the latest podcast, Big Data Professor Tom Davenport discusses how Big Data will impact legal services and how firms can implement this technology to be more effective in what they do and how they compete.Q: How to merge rows by a certain field value? I have data in the following format. | Column1 | Column2 | |--------------------- | ---------|| CategoryId | Name | |--------------------- | ---------|| 1 | C1 | | 2 | C1 | | 3 | C2 | | 3 | C3 | I want to get all the unique categories into a new row, and select a single row with the highest category ID, as a column 3. I've already tried using group by, but I'm not sure how to get just one row with the highest ID. I can't think of how to do it. How would I get the data like this: | Column1 | Column2 | | Column3 | |--------------------- | --------- | ------------- | ---------|| CategoryId | Name | CategoryId | | MaxId | |--------------------- | --------- | ------------- | ---------|
