I am having a hard time trying to get a list of all the files that are in the zip file. I don't seem to be able to find the correct way to do it. My attempt so far has been as follows: `import zipfile`
`zipfile_handle=zipfile.ZipFile('base.zip', 'r')` `zipfile_handle.getinfo('base.zip')` I was thinking I could somehow use the `os.listdir()` function to get the full list, but I can't seem to find a way to incorporate it in my code. Anyone who knows how to do this? A: First, I would use the `zipfile` module instead of downloading it from the internet. This way, you don't have to worry about the authenticity of the file nor download speeds. You may also want to change the file mode to `'r+b'`, so you can delete the file later. I would recommend to have a look at the tutorial that is linked in the comments. Now, once you have the file, you could do something like this: `import zipfile` with `zipfile.ZipFile('base.zip', 'r+b')`
`as archive:` `for n, dn in archive.namelist():` `if 'fitgirl.mp3' in dn:` `print '%s\t%s' % (dn, n)` If you want, you can wrap this inside a function and have it recurse directories, but it is not needed.
