A main portion of a large screen display apparatus such as a television (TV) receiver, a personal computer (PC) display or the like has a large outer case and an LCD panel has a rectangular display surface surrounded by the outer case. Generally, a front-surface reflection type liquid crystal display is used as the TV display of the large screen display apparatus such as the TV receiver or the like and, as disclosed in JP-A-11-233496, the display apparatus can be used as a table in such a manner that a projection screen is disposed in front of the display screen. The screen of the display apparatus of this type should be arranged to be seen with good image from all directions around and, even in the case where a person sitting opposite to the display surface turns the back of his/her head to view the display surface, the person should see a good image from a direction without reflection of a display light from the display surface. Therefore, the screen of the display apparatus of this type is required to have a high degree of contrast. As a conventional technique related to the back reflection prevention of the LCD display surface, a reflection preventive film (black non-light-passing film or black light-passing film) can be used. In this case, a fluorescent film or the like is patterned on the reflection preventive film to form a pixel. As the fluorescent film, a film obtained by a vacuum deposition method or sputtering method can be used. However, when the patterning on the reflection preventive film is performed through the above-mentioned method, the light, which is incident to the film, is disadvantageously lost in the process of patterning. As a consequence, the contrast of the display is deteriorated. In order to solve the problem of the deterioration of the contrast, a back light unit is used in the display apparatus as disclosed in JP-A-7-253903. As an example of the back light unit, there is a surface light source type back light unit having a flat light source such as a light emitting diode (LED) or an incandescent lamp and a reflective sheet, which is disposed on the light source, and a diffusion sheet, which is disposed on the light source and has a light diffusion function, is disposed on the light source. In addition, a reflector, which comprises a white or a transparent member, is disposed on the light source. In the surface light source type back light unit, in order to prevent interference of light between
