We will let everyone know the winner of the game at 12:05am PST. If you have any questions, comments, or concerns, please contact us via Discord or email, or feel free to leave a comment here. Gobby McGobblenutz Presents: The Questionably Quirky Quiz Show? Available NOW! The Questionably Quirky Quiz Show is a brand new unique game experience I've created for the community. I believe this game is unique from any other game I've played, nor have I ever played before. You may not know me, but I know you, and you know me. This is a Game of Truth, Truthiness, and TRUTH. It's the Quiz Show you've always wanted. It's no longer a game of chance, nor is it a game of skill. As you may notice, I use the word 'truth' a lot. Even where you're not supposed to know the truth. This makes my game very different from other games. Every single question is Truth. No point values, no skill based choices, just a simple different game. I've discussed this in the past, and I will be discussing it here too. There are things in this game that may leave you bleeding from a wide variety of places, maybe even so much that you bleed to death. The game is simple, and the questions are ridiculous. BUT, it's a lot of fun, and you'll probably like the game. (I'm pretty sure it is the game for you! haha) We'll have it as a YouTube game soon, with MUCH higher production values than I'm able to make on my own due to my lack of money and time, as well as my lack of skill when it comes to writing, and I won't be able to feature any of you as winners! So, if you want your name into the game, then join me here, or find me

Romance was intended to be a nice spin-off of Fates. It was not a direct sequel. Mille, artist Guillem March and Kotaki had all written or drawn mangas themselves that were supposed to be part of this series. In fact, the prequel, "Fates/Zero", was supposed to introduce Kotaka's perspective and the reason she is existing. Because of the connection of Fates and Fate/Zero, Romance is considered an important part of the Fates/Zero universe. So why is there no Fates/Romance within the official canon? Personally, I think it's because Fates was made for an ADULT audience. Kotaka's and Kotori's storyline in Romare is intended to be closer to a teenage romance, being based on Kotori losing her virginity. Even if it doesn't mention explicitly, it's hinted in several flashbacks (and a few exceptions within Romare). Another reason could be that, in order to keep Fates for adults, Fates/Romance would have to be a prequel to Fates. Kotaka would have been around 14 or 15. So, her decision to have children with Kotori would have been made when she was only 14 or 15. This is about 5 years after the events of Fates. Making of The 10th Enemy Restaurant Mod is a free mod that lets you experience what it was like to have a restaurant to serve your customers, and eat all the food that you and your family want. You will visit tourist and normal shops, and you can help the customers, and if you want, you can also cook food with a special recipe you are able to find in each house. There is also a special staff that you will meet in your journey, that will help you out and even sell you some food. The game gives you the opportunity to work as a restaurant owner, and to experience what it means to run a restaurant and to work in a real restaurant. What's new in Tiger Fighter 1931 Tora!Tora!Tora! MP024:

Crawl brings a big party vibe to the newly cool Petare neighborhood. The bar is in the former home of an art deco cinema, and each night offers a different theme--everything from belly dancing to disco, with something for everyone. You might be dancing the salsa at 2 a.m. or grooving on Afro-Caribbean reggae at 5 a.m., but no one will judge you if you prefer to smoke a ganja cigar and drink some $5 cocktails. Supermodels, drug dealers, and rappers loiter outside of the open-air lounge, and the smallish TVs frequently show Asian-language programs. Bypass the crowd and head downstairs to the basement, which serves as the dance floor, and you'll find a buffet of conch and chicken, as well as a taste of Hawaiian favorites. And if you fall asleep here, rest assured that security staff will gently guide you out the back door at the first signs of trouble. What once was a stable neighborhood community now teems with seedy drug dealers and aggression, broken sidewalks and under-age clubbers wandering the streets at night. A nice neighborhood trumps how it looks. Ok, don't ditch your guide book and visit Pampita's Café & Bar on your first day in Panama City. It might give you the oohs and aahs the next unsuspecting white tourist deserves. At Pampita's, the charming jungle-green interior looks just a bit rosy and out of place next to the blackened-from-fire brick walls, and it might bring you to mind of the deadly Caribbean beaches. This is no Cancun, however. The food and drink served here is strictly on the up and up. Try a plate of Kokopelli's skewers, nachos with smoked oyster sauce, or a macaroni salad that is simply one of the best dishes you'll ever have in Panamá City. The Cabernet Sauvignon made from grapes grown on Rainforest Mountain in the province of Chiriqui is as much a part of the menu as the other wines they offer here. Pour yourself a plate of grilled fresh pork, quinoa, and black beans and enjoy. Rainforest tends to be less sweet than the other Latin-American vineyards. This wine is a good option for those folks who aren't drinking with their eyes. Dodge the drug deals and repel the waves of giggling kids outside

"Death is just one step below God in heaven. Pretty much I'm what you'd call a celestial angel. This world that we live in right now is just the surface. There is so much more, and I know so much, I have so much to do." - Vi Although the demonic "Jeh'oul" was defeated in the events of "I Wanna be the Boshy", his memories were not destroyed and were only locked away, until the veil of darkness was violently torn asunder. Today, Jeh'oul is back on the winds of death, and soon the entire world will be enslaved by the demon's will. When you first meet Jeh'oul, he is captured by a blind and mute shaman, who prays to the angry gods for vengeance in a hopeless attempt to keep the demon at bay. It's up to you to break free from the shaman and defeat the Demon Lord, and wipe out this world as we know it. Gameplay: Wings of Vi is a 2D platformer in which you play as the angel Vi, tasked with defeating the demon lord Jeh'oul after he is freed from captivity. Along the way, you must traverse through dangerous worlds and face off against hellspawn in order to discover where Jeh'oul lurks and save the world from his demonic clutch. The game takes inspiration from many old school platformers such as "Megaman", "Cave Story", and "Castlevania", and cutting out some of the arbitrary difficulty of hidden traps and pixel perfect jumps in favor of skill based gameplay. The game aimed to capture the attention of the same core group of players that play and love their platformers, such as the speedrunning community, hardcore-platformer lovers and the skill based platformer crowd, all while appealing to a broader audience through a variety of difficulty settings and modifiers. - Minimal HUD - Optional Armor - 4 Modes of Difficulty: • Easy - Go in order. • Classic - Every level you play (except for the last), you should be able to beat. • Hardcore - Every level, but with a longer time limit and new tricks. • Extra Difficult - Every level, but with a time limit. • Boss Rush - Every level, but with a time limit (could be abused). • Scenarios - All levels in one save file. - Difficulty and Modifiers: • Deathbloom: The
