It is sometimes desirable to determine the validity of a data access request. When designing a data processing system, it is desirable to know which portions of the data access request are valid. Valid portions of the data access request include parts that access data that does not change and parts that are not locked. In a data processing system, if it is known that one portion of the data access request is valid, it may be possible to avoid locking a portion of the data access request, which may be overkill for the request. In a data processing system that is reconfigurable, it may be desirable to have the ability to reconfigure certain parts of the data processing system to allow for a possible reconfiguration of such data processing system. However, it is not always possible to determine the validity of the data access request. Therefore, it would be desirable to have a data access request validator for determining the validity of a data access request.Štítí Štítí () is a village and municipality (obec) in České Budějovice District in the South Bohemian Region of the Czech Republic.
