Q: Parsing xml file and reading element with XmlPullParser I am trying to make a simple application that reads from a xml file and parses it and then at some point I want to read a specific element. My problem is that when I try to call the getText() method it throws a NPE. My XML file looks like this: And my class that calls it is: public class Smalldown {
@SuppressWarnings("Xml.RawAttributeValue") public static void main(String[] args) throws Exception { //Read from file
(parser.getEventType() != XmlPullParser.END_DOCUMENT) { if(parser.getEventType() == XmlPullParser.START_TAG) { if (parser.getName().equals("home")) { int id = Integer.parseInt(parser.nextText()); Log.d("All", Integer.toString(id)); } } if (parser.getEventType() == XmlPullParser.START_

Assembly-Diverted Assembly Method: DNA Self-Assembly into Multiscale Superstructures with Programmable Edge, Topology, and Shape. The assembly of DNA into superstructures is of great importance in biomaterials science. In this study, we propose an assembly-diverted assembly (ADA) method for DNA self-assembly into superstructures with programmable edge, topology, and shape. As one of the main merits, the shape of the ADA DNA structures can be changed simply by changing the length of the input DNA segments. More interestingly, the input DNA segments can also be assembled into the DNA structures with programmable edge, to impart the ADA method with programmable nature. The DNA structures obtained by the ADA method are atomically flat and have a characteristic that high-aspect-ratio, edge-terraced, inner pillars, and spherical tips. Therefore, it is considered that the ADA method can be a powerful tool for the assembly of various building blocks into various surface shapes such as tapes, sheets, and honeycombs, where structures with programmable shape, size, and shape can be assembled. As a method of electrically connecting a semiconductor device and an electrode pad of a semiconductor substrate or a circuit substrate, there is a flip chip bonding method, in which an electrode pad is provided on a main surface of the semiconductor device, a protruding electrode is formed by plating on the electrode pad, and the protruding electrode and the electrode pad are directly bonded. In a flip chip bonding method, typically, in order to provide a highly reliable bump connection, a pre-heating step (annealing step) of heating the semiconductor device to temperatures of from 350° C. to 400° C. or higher is performed prior to the bonding of the protruding electrode and the electrode pad. For example, Patent Document 1 discloses a method, in which a bonding agent is applied on a main surface of the semiconductor device, the semiconductor device is arranged on a support substrate, the bonding agent is heated at a temperature of 300° C. or higher by a heating mechanism provided on the support substrate, and then an outer lead of a lead frame is bonded on the bonding agent. French side Paris Saint-Germain is focusing on Alexis Sanchez's recovery after he returned home to Chile following a lengthy spell on the sidelines. Former Arsenal star Sanchez has yet to start pre-season training at PSG as he recovers from
