The main mode is not FIFA's traditional Career Mode that led the franchise to global domination for decades, but it does take a significant step forward with it. Under the codename "Road to FIFA World Cup Russia 2018," a simulation-based adventure game will have players competing to become the next FIFA World Cup champion. Fans and players will also be able to compete in the new "Pro Clubs" mode. Multiplayer will see improved online play features. The four-team all-play-all feature that helps players train and improve is back, including the ability to scrim against opponents and download new tactics. The online mode will also feature the new "El Clasificador" (Spanish for "National Selector") system, which enables players to see their national team rankings by online game and club career mode. Additional information on the announcements was also provided in the official press release: StoryLine — Story Line brings the story of the sport to life through a central narrative, which will drive the direction of the FIFA World Cup. There are new countries such as Germany, Portugal, Russia, Japan and South Korea. Players from all over the world are invited to compete on the greatest FIFA World Cup™ stage to be crowned World Cup champions. Road to FIFA World Cup Russia 2018 Mode — FIFA World Cup™ Road to Russia 2018 Mode is a new game mode where players can take on the role of a professional football player and follow the career of a national football team competing for the coveted FIFA World Cup. Road to FIFA World Cup Russia 2018 will be available only in Pro Clubs. Online PVP Matches — Online Multiplayer will also be significantly improved, with online matches that are fully compatible with the Steam platform allowing you to join multiplayer matches with your friends on the go. Three new features have been added: "El Clasificador" — Your national team rankings are now displayed online, whether you're playing in any mode in FIFA 2017 or FIFA 20. It's also now possible to compete with your friends on the FIFA platform — competitions, leagues and cups, as well as ranking events. "Quick-Play" — Quick-Play is a new type of Online match that will be available for both FIFA 17 and FIFA 20. This consists of a quick online match for 5 or 10 minutes, with the match being decided by the outcome of the last "third party" or "
