The goal is to have the players look and behave like they really do in real life. But at the press conference, FIFA producer Aleksander Gavrus said he's not entirely sure if the look-and-feels make the game more fun. "There will be you say that it doesn't look good, but we can't really say. We have not experienced the game," he said. "There are people working on it. We hope the community will help us find out." He added that it would be impossible for FIFA to implement as many features as possible because of the time-frame. "It's not possible to have each feature implemented by every game engine. That's why we need people to help us," Gavrus said. He also explained that some features were included that were designed to be the basis for "FIFA 21" in order to keep the gameplay base the same for the next-generation game. Some of the highlights from this year's FIFA include the introduction of the new core FIFA engine, which runs at 60fps (frames per second) on all platforms, and how micro-transactions will be implemented for the first time. The engine will also be utilizing visual development tools "which allow developers to utilise the features of the engine to create new game mechanics." The look and feel of the game is supposed to be more realistic and it should be similar to "FIFA 17" and "FIFA 18." However, Gavrus added that the game will be set in the present time period and feature photo-realistic graphics. "We felt that we needed to do something different in order to make the game look cool,” he said. “Every year, we have some kind of new generation of consoles, but they do not have the same features as the previous generation of consoles, so we decided to focus on the next generation of consoles. “We will be utilising the power of the Xbox One and the PlayStation 4,” Gavrus said. He also explained that the update in the gameplay engine will allow the game to be more realistic and it will provide a boost to the visuals. “We will have features which

Features Key:

- Play one-on-one with players from the latest rosters across the entire competition.
- Combine stats, tools, and tactics in a full-featured editor to create and share your own teams.
- Master new skill moves to penetrate defenses and exploit open spaces.
- Add an experienced player on to dominate in a new and improved Champions League mode.

FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology,” which uses motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power FIFA 22 gameplay.
