Neptune is one of the eight planets in our solar system. It is the fourth smallest planet in the solar system. It is also the furthest planet from the sun. Neptune is the ninth planet from the Sun and the third planet in the Solar System to have a rotation period less than that of Mercury. Neptune's day is approximately 164 days, and it takes about 17 days for it to orbit the Sun. Neptune is by far the largest of the outermost planets. It has a mass about one sixth the mass of Earth's moon, and it is about thirty times more massive than Saturn. In 1984, Voyager 2 discovered that Neptune was located inside a magnetic and geologic time-capsule. The planet's atmosphere has a similar composition to the solar wind from which it formed. The core is rock with a density close to that of iron. The mantle is of rock and ices with an iron-nickel core. Neptune's atmosphere is composed mainly of hydrogen and helium, with a small percentage of methane. It is heavily layered and divides into a chemically-rich part above the atmosphere and a chemically-depleted part below the atmosphere. The atmosphere is separated into the troposphere and stratosphere. The stratosphere is jellyfish are a group of marine animals that live in oceans and coastal waters. They belong to the phylum, Cnidaria.

---

Jellyfish are commonly known as "sea-monkeys",

"sea-spiders" or "sea-animals". They are named because they are comparable in appearance to jelly, and because they consist of a gelatinous substance in place of muscles. The common type of jellyfish is the Portuguese man-of-war, although there are over 1000 species in the world, including the Portuguese
