Please check back later or try to add it yourselfQ: Django auth, how to use a custom backend, Django 1.4 I would like to override the default auth backend django uses. I'm using Django 1.4 and I have been successfully using the default Django auth backend for some months now. I'm now attempting to make a change to the Django auth backend but despite doing everything right on the tutorial example, it still defaults to the default one. I'm trying to use the default auth backend but I think I might be doing something wrong. If I go to the shell and execute > python manage.py migrate auth it takes a few minutes and doesn't finish. Maybe there is no tutorial example for what I'm trying to achieve. Can someone give me step by step instruction on how to set the backend to the default one? I've copied and pasted the stock django dev tutorial and I made only changes I think relevant to my version. So how to make my changes work with the Django 1.4 set up? My settings.py file is below: "" Django settings for myapp project. For more information on this file, see For the full list of settings and their values, see "" # Build paths inside the project like this: os.path.join(BASE_DIR,...) import os import sys BASE_DIR = os.path.dirname(os.path.dirname(__file__)) SITE_ROOT = BASE_DIR # Quick-start development settings - unsuitable for production # See # SECUR 6d1f23a050
