 APK file.. it is a sure sign of imminent doom. This is now the Bush presidency's opening shot in the second theater of war that Bush intends to begin once he leaves office. And so the master plan to have an Iraqi government which is despised and despised by Iraqis and yet key parts of which are controlled by the neoconservatives has begun. It's going to take years, and this is the first step, a precursor to war. Now, the last time we had this transition to a neoconservative grip, the neoconservatives were shocked when the new administration was not entirely ready to implement their program, and the attempt to essentially put a friendly Iraqi government in place that could be an ally to Israel is going to be an uphill battle. But obviously the neoconservatives have no problem with a puppet government. The neoconservatives control enough of the press to help make that happen. They feel confident that they can get away with it now, and they're certainly going to try to do so in the weeks and months ahead. But this administration has its own plans in view. As you will remember back in January of 2003, I told a group of editors and editors that I was going to warn the world of an imminent Bush war to secure Iraq's WMDs, and I told them that the war could begin in April of 2003. Well, April of this year is the next march season, and so this is the next theater of war. And it is one that we must be ready for, and the only reason we are not is that it is too obvious for the neoconservatives, especially as that the neoconservatives are so powerful within the new administration. They have an agenda. They want to take over Iraq. They want to spread democracy. They want to help make the United States less vulnerable. But they cannot have an honest debate about these things, because they feel the public support, which is more powerful than they are. The president of the United States, the vice president of the United States, national security adviser, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs, and all the generals on the Joint Chiefs support the neocon agenda on Iraq. They all say that the issue of WMDs and the issue of spreading democracy and securing the United States against another attack are secondary to that agenda, and they are right. They are the agenda. In the mean time, even if the WMDs were not there and even if the Iraqis hadn't given the United States a free pass, after all c6a93da74d
