The.js files are stored in the static folder under my root directory. This is located in a github repo. I have tried the following: heroku run,node_modules/express/bin/express -p 80 -e prod When I visit the site I get the following error: Internal Server Error The server encountered an internal error or misconfiguration and was unable to complete your request. Please contact the server administrator, and inform them of the time this error occurred, and what you might need help with. More information about this error may be available in the server error log. Additionally, a 500 Internal Server Error error was encountered while trying to use an ErrorDocument to handle the request. Nowhere in the above message can I see any mention of an index.js file. There is a index.html file however. How can I get the public folder to be copied over to my heroku instance? I know I need to change my Procfile. web: node index.js A: You will need to include some sort of web server so that your app is accessible to the outside world. Ideally that would be Express, but there are other options as well. Express is just a relatively easy way to get something on the web, but depending on what you need, you might need something other than Express (e.g. koa). Background and Goals: Recent developments in novel therapies for treatment of chronic hepatitis C (CHC) infection, with many of these now being available worldwide, presents the opportunity to address several important issues in CHC. The aim of this proposal is to utilize state-of-the-art analyses of existing clinical trials to determine the potential of combination therapy with pegylated interferon and ribavirin (P/R) to improve treatment response compared c6a93da74d
